When SCD contributor Doug Koztoski pitched the idea for a story on the 1972 Topps Football set, I was all in.

Not only is it the 50th anniversary of the set, but also of the 1972 Miami Dolphins, the last NFL team to go undefeated throughout an entire season and finish it off with a Super Bowl victory.

I was 9 years old back then and a huge football fan. And I just happened to be a big fan of two of the most popular and dominant teams of the 1970s — the Dolphins and the Dallas Cowboys.

How, you say, can you be a fan of both teams? Simple. I was 9, and at that age, you are a fan of whatever is cool and trendy.

Growing up in the Carolinas, the closest NFL team was the Atlanta Falcons, but who pulled for the hapless Falcons in the 1970s? Heck, people in Atlanta didn't even pull for the Falcons back then. They pulled for the Redskins, just like nearly every other football fan in the South.

I bucked the trend and pulled for the rival Cowboys and Dolphins for reasons only kids my age could understand. First, they both had cool team names. As a kid, you dreamed of being either a football or baseball player, or a cowboy. I also watched the TV show "Flipper" when I was younger and fantasized about riding a dolphin. Besides, what the heck was a Steeler? Or a Packer? Or a Raider?

For me, the Cowboys and Dolphins were the good guys and heroes of the day.

Both squads also had cool team colors. The Dolphins had those beautiful, bright aqua and orange uniforms with white helmets featuring a dolphin leaping toward the sun. And how could you not love the Cowboys, with those silver helmets with the blue star on the side? (Adding to my cowboy fantasy, I was also partial to the Colts' horseshoe.)

The Cowboys were led by quarterback Craig Morton in 1972, but would eventually feature my all-time favorite player. Roger Staubach was a real-life American hero. He won the Heisman Trophy, served in the U.S. Navy and fought in Vietnam before becoming an NFL star. I was proud to have an autographed photo of "Roger the Dodger" on my bedroom wall.

The game was different in those days. It was a running league instead of a passing league. Joe Namath, Archie Manning and Fran Tarkenton were the NFL's top passers, throwing for about half the yards we see from today's young gunslingers.

In the '70s, running backs were the stars. Every team, it seemed, had a star rusher, led by famous police chase target and memorabilia collector O.J. Simpson. The league was filled with great running backs and I loved the big, bruising fullbacks like Franco Harris, John Riggins and Marv Hubbard.

The Dolphins had the biggest bulldozer of them all in fullback Larry Csonka. He teamed with elusive tailback Mercury Morris and the aptly named Jim Kiick to give Miami one of the league's best offenses. The Cowboys also had a tremendous backfield with Calvin Hill and real-life cowboy and rodeo star Walt Garrison.

Both teams were also good, appearing on TV almost every Sunday. The Cowboys won the 1971 Super Bowl (24-3 over Miami) before the Dolphins put together the most dominant season in NFL history in 1972, beating the Redskins in the Super Bowl.

I was just getting into trading cards back then, picking up packs of baseball cards whenever I could. I was fascinated when I first discovered football cards and immediately began searching for my favorite players.

I ripped open pack after pack, looking for Staubach, Hill, Garrison or "Bullet Bob" Hayes. I remember trading Harris and Terry Bradshaw for Csonka, Morris or anyone from the Dolphins' "No-Name" defense. I swapped the flamboyant Namath for mild-mannered Dolphins QB Bob Griese. I even collected Lions running back Steve Owens so I could tell friends he was a long-lost relative (he was not).

It was a great time to be a young football fan and the 1972 Topps set (see page 38) made it even more fun.

THE HOBBY IS THE PEOPLE ||| BY JOHN NEWMAN

Longtime promotor Lyn Lake encourages proper etiquette at card shows

My last column focused on card shops and their importance to the hobby. There's just something about an in-person transaction or even a hobby conversation that can't be replicated online.

A card show holds the same sentiment for me. Maybe I'm biased having worked the show circuit at the age of 13 and setting up as a dealer at 15, but I think most agree that the anticipation and adrenaline of attending a card show is hard to replicate.

A card show is a great place for hobbyists no matter what hat you wear. You have a large room with people who are passionate about the same thing. You are amongst "your people."

As dealers, we show up with our wares, set up our tables and wait for the doors to open. As a hobbyist, we can't wait to walk through those doors, make some deals and hopefully acquire some cards that will produce that adrenaline rush. However, sometimes we don't know or forget all that's entailed with producing the event.

I recently had show promoter Lyn Lake on my podcast to talk about his career and the effort it takes to put on these events. I've known Lyn for many years and as someone who has promoted a few smaller shows, I knew he'd have some interesting insight and let listeners behind the curtain.

Lyn didn't plan to be a card show promoter. He was a collector and part of a collector's club in Cortland, N.Y. He had to write a business plan for a class he was taking, so he did one about putting on a card show. The club disbanded but the project inspired him to do what he wrote about.

He promoted his first show in 1986 and even got Yankees legend Johnny Mize to sign autographs. It would be the start of his company, CNY Promotions, which is still going strong 37 years later. A lot has changed in that time, both in the hobby and his location. He recently moved from New York to New Mexico but the shows go on as he flies across country to keep the tradition going.

There are many expenses that go into putting on a show, from building rental, insurance, renting tables/chairs and, of course, advertising.

When Lyn started in 1986, he did shows in Cortland, Ithaca, Watertown and Auburn, but in 1989 he moved to the larger Syracuse market with his first New York State Fairgrounds show. He puts on six to eight shows per year, including a few toy shows. His shows are usually 110 tables but he does an annual 240-plus-table mega show to close out the year.

Recently a controversial sign on the door of his show went viral in the hobby. It stated that collectors could sell their cards to dealers set up at the show, but collector-to-collector sales were frowned upon. Someone posted a photo of the sign on social media and soon many chose sides and vehemently defended it.

It became a hot-button topic, which was discussed on many shows, including my own. I asked Lyn what prompted the sign. The first thing he said surprised me. The sign, he said, isn't new but gained attention when someone posted the photo on social media. It came about, he said, because a dealer was completing a significant sale when another collector came up in the middle of the transaction and drew the collector away so he could buy the card from him instead.

As a dealer and collector, that's just terrible etiquette and plain rude. If I was the dealer, I'd be upset too. The expenses for setting up at a show add up. To have a potential sale ruined in that fashion is not OK. Believe it or not, there is hobby etiquette and that action violates the code.

Such incidents shouldn't happen, so Lyn made the sign. While I think maybe it could have been worded better, I agree with it. As Lyn said, he has to keep the interests of both dealers and collectors at the forefront. He isn't saying collectors can't sell cards at the show, but there has to be etiquette and decorum that is fair to all parties.

After 37 years of putting on shows, Lyn is doing many things right. That's why I continue to set up at his shows after all these years. There are other shows I can't say the same for.

10. $22,651 on 49 bids: 2016 Bowman Chrome Juan Soto Gold Refractor, #4/50 (BGS 9.5, auto 10)

Over the past few years, the leaders of the hobby's young QB brigade have been Patrick Mahomes II and Josh Allen. Joe Burrow may have stepped into their stratosphere on Jan. 22, 2023.

That was the day he outdueled Allen in the AFC Divisional playoff game, when his Bengals went to Buffalo and beat the Bills decisively, 27-10.

Back in 2020, Burrows' highly anticipated rookie season ended abruptly after 10 games due to a leg injury. But he came back in 2021 to throw for 4,611 yards and 34 touchdowns. This season, he had an equally productive season: 4,475 yards and 35 TDs. And collectors are clearly staking their claim on the young QB.

Consider these prices paid in a half-dozen recent eBay sales:

- $25,000 on one bid for a Gem-Mint PSA 10 specimen of his 2020 Panini Flawless autographed patch card (see Top 10 chart).
- $14,077 on 44 bids for a 2020 Panini Contenders Rookie Ticket Stub. Marked #3/9, this one graded out at PSA 10.
- $13,300 on 61 bids for a 2020 Panini Green Shimmer Prizm. Marked #5/5, this is yet another PSA 10 specimen.
- $10,500 on 37 bids for a 2020 Black Prizm variation of Panini's Pandora Donruss Optic card. Graded PSA 10 and bearing Burrows' autograph, this one is marked #23/25.
- $10,100 on 47 bids for a 2020 Panini Flawless signed Sapphire patch card. Graded BGS 9, it bears the mark #9/10.
- $9,700 on 67 bids for a 2020 Panini One Jumbo Tag autographed card with a Nike swoosh on the enclosed patch. It's marked #3/5 and graded BGS 9.5.

STAN THE MAN, 75 YEARS AGO

Seventy-five years ago, Bowman issued its 1948 black-and-white baseball set. Among the stars: Stan "The Man" Musial. Despite having lost one season (1945) to military service, the 27-year-old was already an established star. In five full seasons, he owned two Major League batting titles (.357 in 1943 and .365 in 1946) and was only five hits away from 1,000. His career average at that point: a lofty .342.

Yet Musial was just getting started. When his rookie card was making the rounds in spring 1948, Musial delivered a season for the ages. He notched 230 hits that year, and he did it with authority: 46 doubles, 18 triples and 39 homers. He also scored 135 times and drove in 131 runs, both league-leading totals.

Kids who pulled a 1948 Musial out of Bowman's penny or nickel packs held a hitting hero in their hands. It was his rookie card, too — a beauty featuring Musial in a soft-focus black-and-white shot. (Leaf also issued a 1948 Musial card — a colorized photo of the Cardinals star.)

A 1948 Bowman Musial graded 8 can go well past $10,000. We saw just such an example recently on eBay when a PSA 8 with perfect centering drew 65 bids and soared to $16,059.

A lesser-grade 1948 Bowman Musial (PSA 7) sold in December 2022 for $4,605 on 33 bids. Going in the other direction, it's rare to see Musial's Bowman rook in 9 grade. When it does turn up, it can spike to $50,000 or more.

Here's a host of other Musial hits on eBay in recent weeks:

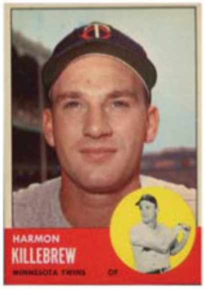
- A 1948 Leaf Musial PSA 5 sold for $3,795 on 46 bids. A PSA 4 example brought $2,247 on 55 bids.
- A 1949 Bowman white-back Musial (PSA 7.5) went for $1,950 on 34 bids.
- A 1953 color Bowman Musial graded SGC 7 fetched $1,750 on a single bid. Perhaps the best-looking of all Musical cards, this one features the smiling slugger in a dugout candid, with his Cardinals hat slightly askew and a row of bats racked behind him.

KILLER!



Those of us who have been around the hobby and/or sports journalism for a long time likely ran into Harmon Killebrew at one point or another and can vouch for this: "The Killer" ranks as one of baseball's all-time nicest guys. He was a quality person who displayed class and character on and off the field.

Killebrew also ranks as one of baseball's all-time sluggers. In 22 seasons, he pounded 573 homers. When he retired in 1975, there were only four players with more homers. Today, even after the "steroid era," he still ranks 12th.

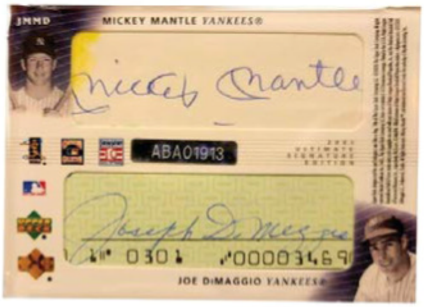
In the hobby, Killebrew is one of those players who somehow is both revered and undervalued. As such, the value of his rookie card — a 1955 Topps — in 9 condition is "only" around $35,000. That figure is dwarfed by two other rookies in the same set. Sandy Koufax's 1955 Topps rookie, also a 9, has exceeded $375,000 in past auctions. And Roberto Clemente's 1955 rook in 9 condition can flirt with $1 million.

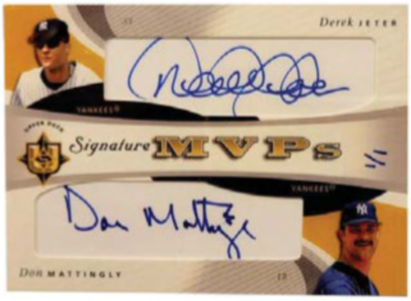
We're reminded of Killebrew because of a recent eBay highlight: the sale for $13,200 of one of his later issues, a 1963 Topps card graded PSA 9.

When that card landed on the market 50 springs ago, Killebrew was coming off a 48-homer, 126-RBI season in 1962, leading the AL in both categories. He responded in '63 with 45 more homers, again leading the league.

The five-figure price for Killebrew's 1963 card illustrates again what collectors will pay for 50-year-old cards graded at Mint 9. Consider that a PSA 8 example of Killebrew's 1963 card sold at auction in January for the collector-friendly price of $535. Another PSA 8 example of a 1963 Killebrew went for $450 in a Buy-It-Now deal.

FOUR-IN-ONE YANKEE GRAIL





Here's the type of rarity that drives Yankee fans wild: a single card with authenticated autographs from four pinstriped legends. The luminaries on the card: Joe DiMaggio, Mickey Mantle, Don Mattingly and Derek Jeter.

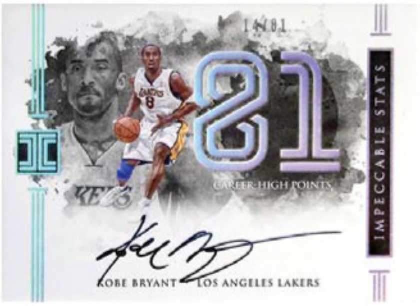
The card in question is a 2005 Upper Deck Ultimate Collection signature. The Jeter and Mattingly sigs are inked right on the card in blue. The Mantle and DiMaggio autographs are cut signatures (Mantle's from a document, DiMaggio's from a check).

Considering the signatures on this "quad" card, you can make the case that it was a bargain at $14,101 on 47 bids. There aren't many single items with autographs from those four Yankees.

ON THE OUTSIDE LOOKING IN

Kobe Bryant's most memorable game? Well, there are many that could enter the discussion, but the cream of the crop has to be his 81-point game on Jan. 23, 2006.

That night, Kobe led his Lakers to an unforgettable home-court win over Toronto. The Raptors sped off to a 63-49 lead at halftime; in the third quarter, they upped their lead to 18 points. Then Kobe took over.



Bryant's 51 second-half points pushed the Lakers past Toronto. His final total of 81 made him the second-highest single-game scorer in NBA history, behind only Wilt Chamberlain.

To celebrate the otherworldly performance, Panini created a special "Impeccable Stats" card in 2016. The company produced the rarity as an edition of — what else? — 81 numbered cards, each one autographed by Bryant.

You'll see a high-grade example in our next 10 list below.

WHAT IS A REED BUY?

Reed Kasaoka is the head buyer of the Sports Division at Dave & Adam's. His primary responsibility is traveling all over the country, buying private collections out of people's closets, bedrooms, attics, basements, garages, and storage units, as well as complete inventories of show dealers, shop owners, autograph dealers, and distributors. Reed comes up with some amazing finds - rarely seen unopened boxes, quality graded cards, certified autographed memorabilia, and much more.

New Upper Deck set pays tribute to NHL's former Indigenous players

By Clemente Lisi

Eight Indigenous players who once played in the National Hockey League and were never featured on an official trading card are finally getting the recognition they deserve.

Upper Deck released the NHL First Peoples Rookie Cards set on Jan. 13 featuring players such as: Ted Nolan, who played for the Detroit Red Wings and served as head coach of the New York Islanders and Buffalo Sabres; Jason Simon of the Phoenix Coyotes; Rocky Trottier of the New Jersey Devils; Dan Frawley of the Pittsburgh Penguins; Danny Hodgson of the Toronto Maple Leafs; and Victor Mercredi of the Atlanta Flames.

The eight-card set — a total of 10,000 of which were produced — will be distributed for free at a variety of Indigenous hockey camps and youth tournaments throughout Canada and at an Indigenous-owned hobby shop called First Row Collectibles in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

"We are able to get into places where we know that the community is going to be involved," said Naim Cardinal, a member of Tallcree First Nation in the Canadian province of Alberta who worked with Upper Deck on the set. "This is going to be accessible for people."

Cardinal said it will be especially impactful for children to get their hands on these cards.

"I think for young kids having access to these hockey cards is going to be very impactful," he said. "When they open up that pack of cards, they're going to see a piece of who they are on those cards."

Collectors in the United States hoping to get their hands on these cards will have to rely on the secondary market in places such as eBay or COMC.

The set was designed by Jacob Alexis, an artist from Alexis Nakota Sioux Nation in Alberta, while Cardinal worked with Upper Deck on which players to feature. Some of the hurdles, Cardinal said, included finding photos of the players to use on the front of the cards.

The collaboration with Upper Deck and the idea for this set came in July 2020 after Cardinal appeared on an Instagram live conversation with Ken Reid. The Canadian broadcaster has written several books, including "Hockey Card Stories: True Tales from Your Favorite Players" in 2014 and the sequel "Hockey Card Stories 2: 59 More True Tales from Your Favorite Players" in 2018.

Cardinal, who has been collecting hockey cards since 1989, has become famous in the hobby for his large collection of rookie cards featuring Indigenous players who once skated in the NHL. His collection includes such notable players as Hall of Fame goaltender Grant Fuhr and center Bryan Trottier, whose brother Rocky is part of the new set.

Notable current players who have Indigenous heritage include Montreal Canadiens goaltender Carey Price, Vancouver Canucks defenseman Brady Keeper and Washington Capitals right winger T.J. Oshie.

Cardinal said he started as a set collector, but focused on NHLers with Indigenous heritage when he returned to collecting in 2004 following a 10-year gap.

"Going after rookies and pulling them from packs each year was kind of getting old for me," Cardinal said. "I wasn't sure if I wanted to collect anymore. If I wanted to stay in collecting I wanted it to be something meaningful."

In Canada, Indigenous groups comprise the First Nations, Inuit and Metis. Of the more than 7,600 players in NHL history – some 5,100 hailing from Canada – about 80 have been of Indigenous heritage.

Hockey continues to grow among Indigenous communities across Canada at the recreational and organized level at annual events such as the National Aboriginal Hockey Championships for elite teens each May.

Cardinal said he tried being a player collector, but it clicked for him one day that he should focus on players of Indigenous ancestry.

"The thought came to me, 'What if I collected all of the rookie cards of the Indigenous players who have played in the NHL.' So that's where it began."

He scoured the internet and researched the players who had such a heritage. He then compiled a list of names and that's where the genesis of the current set came to be.

"I never thought my hobby would be able to open up so many doors for me," Cardinal said.

Paul Nguyen, Upper Deck's senior marketing manager, said the player checklist was a collaborative effort.

"We really wanted to make this [set] as authentic as possible," he said. "[Cardinal] helped devise an advisory-type board that would help us really understand what the needs are for a set like this and who they'd want to feature."

Nguyen likened this set to what Upper Deck has done in the past when putting out cards of Willie O'Ree, the former Boston Bruins player of the 1960s who was the first black player in the NHL. He added that the focus of this set was to focus on those who had never had a card.

"That really was the first prerequisite of it all," he added. "If they didn't have a card, we really wanted to feature them."

During the set's development, Cardinal discovered he was related to Hodgson, one of the players featured in the set. Cardinal said it came about after he asked his father if he had ever heard of the Maple Leafs center.

"I didn't know [Hodgson] existed until years after I started putting my hockey card collection together," he admitted. "I'm constantly adding players to my collection."

The set includes players from a variety of eras, two of whom are deceased. It includes Johnny Harms of the Chicago Blackhawks, who died in 2003 and played during the 1940s and '50s. The set also spotlights William LeCaine, who died in 2019 and played in just four NHL games with the Penguins during the 1968-69 season. He played a majority of his career in the now-defunct International Hockey League.

Cardinal said the set is a source of pride.

"Being asked to be a part of this Upper Deck project was a huge honor for me," he said. "Not only from a collector's perspective, but as an Indigenous person and coming from where I come from."

FLAWLESS FOOTBALL

Stars of undefeated Miami Dolphins add to popularity of unique 1972 Topps Football set

By Doug Koztoski

Unbeaten. Untied. A perfect season: 17-0.

It's hard to believe it has been 50 years since the 1972 Miami Dolphins posted a flawless record, unmatched in NFL history.

A good YouTube video on that historic team is: "NFL America's Game Super Bowl 7 Champions 1972 Dolphins." About 32 1/2 minutes into the production Miami head coach Don Shula lightly chuckled and said, "You've got the green light, Larry, as long as you make it." No pressure, right?

In this case, Shula was referencing Dolphins punter Larry Seiple during the 1972 AFC Championship game against Pittsburgh. With the team losing by a touchdown early in the second quarter, Seiple lined up to punt, took the long snap, and then saw most of the Steelers run away from him to cover the kick. The pesky punter saw lots of green, as in open space, tucked the ball and scampered about 37 yards to set up his team's first score. Shula approved.

Let's call that huge momentum-changing and potentially season-defining play "The Immaculate Misdirection."

About a week before in an AFC divisional playoff battle between Oakland and Pittsburgh, Steelers' fullback Franco Harris finished off perhaps the most famous play in pro football history as he snagged a deflected pass at about shoe-top height and, with virtually no time left, ran it in for the game-winning touchdown — "The Immaculate Reception." The Steelers, who lost to the Dolphins in the 1972 AFC Championship game, went on to win three Super Bowls in the 1970s.

Like those memorable NFL moments and a few others that season, the 1972 Topps Football set had some memorable surprises, too.

The biggest surprise Topps revealed that year involved test marketing a third series of football cards (#264-351) in only a handful of areas.

Mark Briggs, like many collectors, found out about the '72 third series well after its initial release.

"When I was a kid I never saw any of the third series, I didn't even know they existed—and [later] the high numbers were another reason why I wanted to collect the set," Briggs said. His 1972 set now ranks 14th on the PSA Set Registry for that set.

Two of the offering's more difficult cards for Briggs to find in high grades appear in the high numbers and many collectors can sympathize with his picks: the rookie card of future Hall of Famer Rayfield Wright (#316) and Ken Willard's "Pro Action," the set-ender and part of a subset where a player is seen "in-action" in an actual game — although helmet logos, like Willard's, normally received the airbrush treatment.

Briggs began his graded 1972 Topps Football journey several years ago. Jeffrey Mazzeo, meanwhile, stepped on that field in March 2022 and has just about completed all three series.

Mazzeo, whose set ranked sixth for the collection on the PSA Set Registry, pursues a collection with a specific plan.

"My strategy with sets is I'd rather take a PSA 6 to fill the slots than wait for all PSA 8s," he said.

Utilizing eBay's "Buy It Now" option has helped him a great deal.

"I have my eBay app set to notify me for newly listed PSA-graded '72 Topps cards," he said. "It's more desirable than some of the late-'60s sets. It's accepted as the last vintage set [certainly the last older set distributed by series], it's pretty popular."

Two other factors that make the set special, according to Mazzeo, are the Pro Action cards and it's the first football set highlighting all of the postseason games.

ANOTHER LEVEL

Collector Steve Humanick collected 1972 Topps Football with some solid purchases well before most card prices got out of control, supreme tenacity and patience.

"It took me a decade to get that number one spot on the PSA Set Registry," said Humanick, who has owned the top position since 2017. "I opened a lot of packs, a lot of vending boxes and spent a lot of money. At one point I had a 5,000-count box full of '72 high numbers, from buying complete and partial sets."

Some of Humanick's favorite high numbers include the All Pro cards subset in general, where Dolphins Larry Little (#267), Paul Warfield (#271), Bob Griese (#272) and Garo Yepremian (#275) all make an appearance. His other top picks in that 88-card third series run include the regular card of Miami quarterback Earl Morrall (#308) and the Pro Action card of New York Jets legend Joe Namath (#343), one of the most sought-after cards in the issue.

Humanick calls the Namath action shot "cool and the second highest weighted in the set." The 1972 card carrying the most "weight," via the Set Registry, just happens to be one of Humanick's favorites, a routine selection among collectors of this issue, quarterback Roger Staubach (#200).

"It's a Hall of Fame rookie card," he said. "He served his military time and then came back to football."

A few other bigger-name rookies in the set include John Riggins (#13), Ted Hendricks (#93) and Steve Spurrier (#291)

Of the 351 cards in Humanick's 1972 Topps Football collection, 65 are PSA 9s (Mint) and 286 are PSA 10s (Gem Mint), with 77 of 88 high numbers in the best grade possible. Let those numbers sink in for a moment.

Like Hall of Famer and '72 Dolphins star fullback Larry Csonka, who often dragged defenders with him as he powered through defenses, Humanick expects the 1972 Topps Football set to continue to gain momentum and value among collectors.

"I think they are undervalued compared to late-'70s sets and even cards into the 1980s," Humanick said. But he sees that trend reversing over the years.

Will Humanick ever reach his dream of a complete '72 football issue in PSA 10? Some of that hinges on the affordability of certain star cards and there is a possibility a few pasteboards may never meet that grading level.

"A Staubach rookie in PSA 10 [which he needs and has a Population Report of two] is likely to sell for at least half-a-million dollars and fifteen different cards have yet to even reach the PSA 10 level," he said.

Then again, like Larry Seiple, the collector might enjoy some big success under high pressure. In one scenario, Humanick could rip some of his unopened 1972 packs and maybe find some cards he needs that earn the supreme grade.

Either way, the spirit of Coach Shula no doubt looks upon his pursuit with glee and gives Humanick the permanent green light in his relentless search of his Gem Mint goal. Whether he makes it or not, that will likely keep him "undefeated" atop the PSA Set Registry with this collection for years to come.

For now, call it "The (In Progress) Immaculate Collection."

WAX PACKS

When original sales flagged on the last series of 1972 Topps Football cards, a Wisconsin-based Topps salesman contacted full-time card dealer Larry Fritsch of nearby Stevens Point to gauge his interest in purchasing some of the cards. Fritsch bought the entire load — around 50 wax cases, each with 15 boxes, for about $5 each.

Chances are the large majority of sharp condition 1972 high numbers in hobby circulation stem from Fritsch's purchase and subsequent sales to the public.

Although Fritsch died in 2007, his grandson, Jeremy, now heads the enterprise. And, somewhat surprisingly, the company still has a few unopened 1972 third series wax packs for sale, but they do not advertise them on their website (fritschcards.com), you have to specifically ask about the packs. A company rep said the packs sell for the "current market rate."

COWBOY UP

Behind legendary head coach Tom Landry, the Dallas Cowboys captivated football fans in the 1960s

Three dollars produced a lifetime of priceless memories for Luke Madole, a Dallas first-grader who couldn't wait to see the Cowboys, which had just joined the NFL.

They were led by Eddie LeBaron, who came out of retirement to quarterback the team, and a future Hall of Fame coach named Tom Landry.

It was an inauspicious start, as the Cowboys posted an 0-11-1 record during their inaugural 1960 campaign and wouldn't have a winning season until 1966 when they faced the Packers in the first of two straight iconic NFL championship games.

But to Madole and his football crazy boyhood friends, the early Cowboys became instant heroes.

"We would go on buses called 'Cotton Bowl Flyers' for three dollars — one dollar for the bus to the Cotton Bowl, one dollar for an end zone seat and one dollar for the ride home," he said. "We didn't win often, but it was great fun. It was an innocent time when three boys only 8 or 9 years old could safely walk a little less than a mile to the bus stop, spend all afternoon at the Cotton Bowl at the State Fairgrounds, get back on the bus and come home, all without the concerns parents of today must have."

Heritage Auctions has an almost limitless array of Cowboys memorabilia. But one of the most unique items is a program, which cost 50 cents at the time, from the team's first-ever game in Dallas, a preseason contest against the defending NFL champion Baltimore Colts on Aug. 19, 1960.

The Cowboys put up a valiant effort in that game, leading most of the way before getting stung by Hall of Fame quarterback Johnny Unitas, whose late 62-yard touchdown pass led the Colts to a 14-10 win.

Those early years hold special meaning for Madole and it's no surprise that one of his all-time favorite players was LeBaron, the starting quarterback for 10 of the team's 12 games during their inaugural season. Rookie Don Meredith and Don Heinrich started the other two.

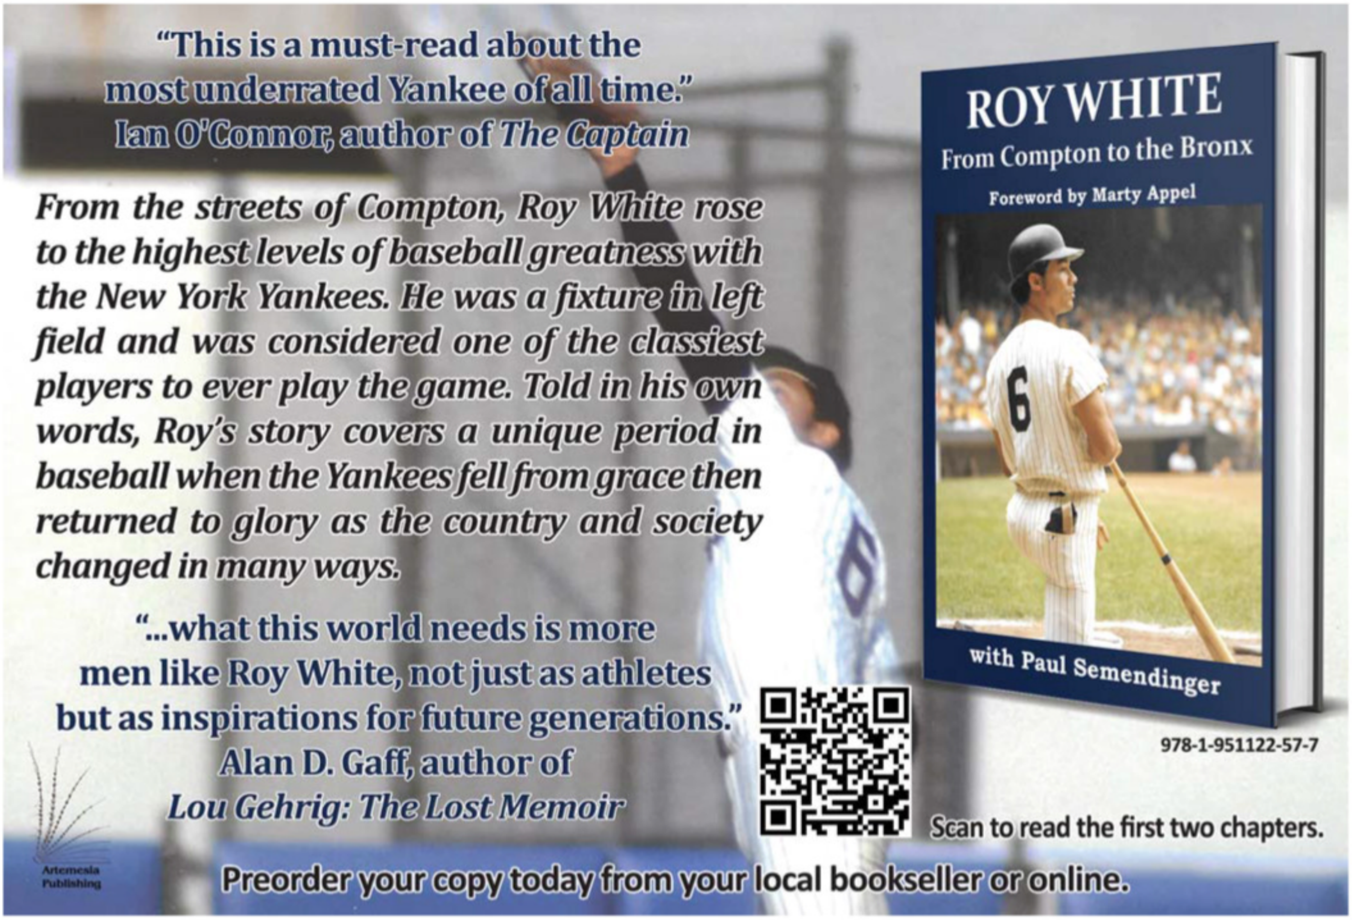
pick (Norm Snead) and sixth-rounder (Joe Krakoski) to the Redskins. LeBaron scored the first touchdown in Cowboys history and set a record for the shortest-ever NFL touchdown pass, a toss from the two-inch line on Oct. 9, 1960 against the Redskins.

The Cowboys didn't reach the .500 plateau until 1965 (7-7), but broke through the following year with a 10-3-1 mark, the first of a league record 20 consecutive winning campaigns under Landry. The team's 1966 season came to an end on New Year's Day (1967) when Dallas fell, 34-27, to Green Bay in the NFL title game, a contest played at the Cotton Bowl, with the Packers going on to face the AFL champion Kansas City Chiefs in the first-ever Super Bowl.

The combatants squared off again the next year in one of the NFL's greatest games — the "Ice Bowl" at Lambeau Field, where temperatures in Green Bay hovered around 15 degrees-below-zero. The Packers won, 21-17, on a last-minute touchdown en route to their second straight Super Bowl championship.

Of course, as the Cowboys improved, Madole became a great admirer of many other Dallas stars from the late '60s and early '70s, such as Meredith, Don Perkins, Cornell Green, Chuck Howley, Bob Lilly, Walt Garrison, Mel Renfro and the great wide receiver "Bullet Bob" Hayes, who set a world record in the 100-meter dash at the 1964 Summer Olympics in Tokyo. He's the only athlete ever to win both an Olympic Gold Medal and Super Bowl title. In 2009, Hayes was inducted posthumously into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, joining fellow Olympic Gold Medalist Jim Thorpe (1912).

"Hayes was unbelievably fast, but Meredith somehow managed to throw Hayes long bombs without under-throwing him,"



"This is a must-read about the most underrated Yankee of all time."

From the streets of Compton, Roy White rose to the highest levels of baseball greatness with the New York Yankees. He was a fixture in left field and was considered one of the classiest players to ever play the game. Told in his own words, Roy's story covers a unique period in baseball when the Yankees fell from grace then returned to glory as the country and society changed in many ways.

"...what this world needs is more men like Roy White, not just as athletes but as inspirations for future generations."

Madole said. “I also recall that Cornell Green's All-American basketball background shone through as he could seemingly leap higher than the average cornerback for interceptions and pass blocks. And Bob Lilly and Chuck Howley were monsters on defense.”

A Dallas attorney, Madole had indirect family ties to the Cowboys at one point. The team's original owner was prominent Dallas oilman Clint Murchison Jr., who, like many Texas businessmen, ran into financial trouble during the early 1980s.

Madole's uncle, wealthy Texas oilman H.R. “Bum” Bright, was approached by Republic Bank, which had made Cowboys-related loans to Murchison as a potential buyer of the franchise. The sale would help Murchison pay off his bank loans and keep the team in Dallas.

“The NFL at that time had a ‘single owner’ policy, but Bum insisted there be a group of investors and eventually the NFL yielded,” Madole said. “So my uncle and a group of Dallas investors bought the team (1984, $85 million) more as custodians, got it through the financial headwinds of the savings and loan crisis, and later sold it to Jerry Jones.”

Jones paid $179 million for the team in 1989. According to Forbes, the Cowboys are now the most valuable sports franchise on the planet, worth $8 billion.

STAR POWER

Love ’em or hate ’em, “America's Team” has one of the country's most recognizable and popular sports logos, a large navy blue star outlined in white and blue against a signature silver-colored helmet.

It’s found almost everywhere you go in and around “Big D,” from shopping malls to AT&T Stadium, the Cowboys' $1.3 billion home, and their amazing 91-acre world headquarters called The Star in suburban Frisco, which includes a 12,000-seat indoor Ford Center practice and training facility, and Tostitos Championship Plaza.

The adjacent Dallas Cowboys Pro Shop has everything a fan could want in the way of team merchandise, from apparel to collectibles and tailgating gear. Guided tours give guests a behind-the-scenes look at the place where players train and work 355 days per year. In addition to the Ford Center, tours include the Nike Star Walk, Super Bowl Memorabilia & Station and the Grand Atrium and War Room where team officials gather during the annual NFL Draft to decide player selections that could determine the team's fate for years to come.

“The draft room was really impressive,” said long-time fan John Jackson of Austin. “I‘d never seen something like that before. There was an entire wall of monitors that could be used for TV or teleconference. The other cool part of the room was the phone system set-up. With one touch of a button you could be on the phone with another NFL team.”

Jackson grew up rooting for the Cowboys during the late ’80s and enjoyed their second great wave of glory years highlighted by Super Bowl titles in 1992, ’93 and ’95, led by quarterback Troy Aikman, running back Emmitt Smith and one of Jackson's favorite players, fullback Daryl “Moose” Johnston.

“It was a really neat experience to tour and visit The Star,” he said. “It's really top notch. I was especially impressed with the details that went into putting a facility like this together.”

The site previously belonged to Jones, but is now owned by the City of Frisco, a short distance due north of downtown Dallas.

FORD CENTER

In 2017, the Cowboys unveiled a Ring of Honor Walk at the complex, recognizing 21 players and coaches who made outstanding contributions during the team's history. A monument, in the shape of their uniform number, is dedicated to each legendary Cowboys player accompanied by a list of their accomplishments.

For example, Aikman, the first overall selection in the 1989 NFL Draft, not only guided Dallas to three Super Bowl wins, but held or was tied for 47 club passing records when he retired, including completions (2,898), yards (32,942) and touchdowns (165). A quote, cast in stone, attributed to Assistant Coach Norv Turner says, “If you look at Troy's greatest plays, they came in the most critical situations. If you look at his greatest games, they came against the best teams and in the playoffs.”

The Star center includes the Baylor Scott & White Sports Therapy Research Center, where the lobby contains bronze casts of several players' hands, including Aikman and fellow quarterback Roger Staubach, one of the greatest clutch performers in NFL history. His many wins included 23 comeback victories, with 14 coming in the last two minutes or overtime. A Heisman Trophy and Maxwell Award winner, he was drafted by the Cowboys out of the U.S. Naval Academy, led the team to four Super Bowls (two titles) during the 1970s and was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1985.

The cast of Staubach's right hand clearly shows the deformed shape of his pinky finger, which sticks out at a 45-degree angle, proof positive of the physical punishment he endured as a target of opposing pass rushers during his long career.

COWBOYS MEMORABILIA

For Cowboys memorabilia collectors, one of the Dallas area's most interesting exhibits is the Tom and Alicia Landry Family Collection, which opened in January 2021 at the Hall of State near the Cotton Bowl in Fair Park, where the Texas State Fair is held each autumn.

The extensive display gives a detailed account of Landry's life and career, including dozens of artifacts secured by the Dallas Historical Society — everything from an autographed, game-worn version of his trademark fedora, trophies and autographed footballs to a framed Jan. 17, 1972 New York Daily News with the bold, double-deck headline: "Dallas Super Champ at Last, Cowboys Wallop Miami, 24-3."

Many of the mementos had never been seen by the public before and include items from Landry's childhood in Mission, Texas; his time as a college and professional athlete; his illustrious NFL career; and his 1990 induction to the Hall of Fame.

One display case contains two commemorative game-used footballs with handsome blue lettering set against a white background. The first was given to Landry following his first-ever NFL victory, a 27-24 win over the Steelers on Sept. 17, 1961 at the Cotton Bowl. The other was for his 250th career win, 24-17, over the Redskins at RFK Stadium in Washington, D.C. on Dec. 11, 1988.

Heritage Auctions has auctioned a vast array of Landry memorabilia. The list includes a colorful 1951 Bowman trading card from his rookie season with the New York Giants; an oversized framed photo of he and Staubach conversing on the sidelines, autographed by both; and a limited edition autographed football.

Landry compiled a record of 270 wins, 178 losses and six ties, good for a .601 career winning percentage.

In addition to all of his on-field accomplishments, one Historical Society display panel tells how Landry's leadership, which transformed the Cowboys into perennial winners, helped lift Dallas out of the darkest moment in the city's long and otherwise interesting history.

"The Cowboys' success soothed an old wound, the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy," it says. "The city was so vilified that when the Cowboys traveled, baggage handlers refused to carry their luggage — simply because of their association with Dallas. But as the streak of winning seasons continued, the image changed and the country began to view Dallas anew; not as the city that killed Kennedy, but instead as home of the Cowboys."

GAR MILLER CARDS
The Longest Continuing Baseball Card Dealer in the Industry

A collector since the age of 10. And a seller since 1970, with an early detailed price list copied, imitated and saved by customers from the early days of the hobby. Publisher of the first "How to Collect Baseball Cards " booklet – complete with a price guide -- in 1973. Today, after more than 52 years, I continue to offer a smorgasbord of quality baseball and football cards, autographs and other memorabilia from the early 1900s to the 1980s. Check my website at www.garmillercards.com and see what you've been missing. Have patience – occasionally a card or cards you've ordered may not still be available – or in the condition listed – but there's plenty to choose from.

WALTER PAYTON COLLECTION HIGHLIGHTS SUPER BOWL LIVE AUCTION; JORDAN CARD TOPS $800K

WALTER PAYTON
OFFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Memorabilia from the personal collection of Pro Football Hall of Famer Walter Payton highlights the 15th annual Super Bowl Live Auction hosted by Hunt Auctions and NFL Auction.

The Feb. 11 auction also features memorabilia from Hall of Famer Gino Marchetti and dozens of current and past NFL stars.

Payton rushed for more than 16,000 yards and was a leader of the 1985 Chicago Bears Super Bowl team. The annual Walter Payton Man of the Year Award was named after the 1993 Hall of Famer following his passing in 1999. Part of the proceeds from the Super Bowl Auction will go to the Walter and Connie Payton Foundation and other charities started by the Payton family.

“There are many items which we continue to cherish along with the countless memories from Walter, which we hold dear with our family,” Payton’s widow, Connie Payton, said. “We have decided to share a portion of the memorabilia from his career with the fans who passionately supported him during his time playing in the NFL.”

Highlights from the collection include: Payton’s 1985 NFL Player of the Year trophy; 1985 Offensive Player of the Year award; 1977 Pro Bowl award; 1994 Chicago Bears throwback jersey; and more than 25 Walter Payton Presentational Game footballs.

Marchetti was a key member of the Baltimore Colts from the 1950s and ’60s and played a key role in the Colts’ 1958-59 NFL championships. He was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1972 and named one of the NFL 100 Greatest Players.

Highlights from the Marchetti Collection include: a rare Baltimore Colts professional model jersey, circa 1950s; 1970 Colts Super Bowl V ring; Marchetti’s Hall of Fame Induction ring; 1959 Colts NFL Championship Rolex wristwatch; and a Marchetti-autographed Hall of Fame helmet.

Other valuable items in the NFL Auction include: a Joe Namath autographed New York Jets helmet (1967-68); 1995 Dan Marino Miami Dolphins jersey; 1966-67 Green Bay Packers Super Bowl I team autographed football; Four Horseman of Notre Dame autographed photograph (1920s); Lawrence Taylor New York Giants helmet (1989-90); J.J. Watt Houston Texans first career game-used jersey; Super Bowl LII game-used football; and a 2013 Seattle Seahawks Super Bowl XLVIII ring.

The auction also features game-used items from such current stars as Justin Herbert, Cooper Kupp, Travis Kelce and Austin Ekeler.

Live auction items will be available at the Super Bowl Experience at the Phoenix Convention Center from Feb. 4-11.

CATCHING UP WITH 'JAWS'

Eagles legend Ron Jaworski talks autographs, Philly fans and his Mickey Mantle card collection

Born and raised in Lackawanna, N.Y., Ron Jaworski was a three-sport star in high school and even turned down an offer from the St. Louis Cardinals in order to pursue his football dreams.

After setting numerous passing records at Youngstown State University, Jaworski was selected in the second round of the 1973 NFL Draft by the Los Angeles Rams. "Rifle Ron" spent three limited seasons in L.A. before being part of a trade that would change his career and life.

In 1977, "Jaws" was traded to the upstart Philadelphia Eagles. Playing for legendary coach Dick Vermeil, he became the starter for the young and developing Eagles.

By 1980, Philadelphia was a legitimate Super Bowl contender. With Jaworski at quarterback, the Eagles won the NFC East for the first time since 1960 and made their first Super Bowl appearance in team history. After a decade in Philadelphia that saw him throw for more than 25,000 yards and nearly 200 touchdowns, Jaws signed with Miami as the backup to eventual Hall of Famer Dan Marino. The Pro Bowler finished his career as a backup with the Kansas City Chiefs in 1989.

Jaworski was just as successful off the field, becoming a leading NFL analyst with ESPN and various media outlets and a highly successful businessman and philanthropist in the northeast.

In this exclusive interview with Tony Reid, the Philadelphia sports icon talks about his collection of autographed Mickey Mantle cards, the memorabilia at his many golf courses and his relationship with Philly fans.

Do you remember the first time someone approached you for an autograph?

It was right after I was drafted by the Rams. I was still at Youngstown State. I did an appearance for a tailor. I was in the store and they produced pictures of me. That was probably 1972 and the first time someone actually asked for my autograph, truthfully, on a picture. I hope they still have it.

What was the most memorable fan interaction you've had during your career?

For the most part, my relationship with fans has been very good. Even here in Philadelphia, where the fans can be rough on players that are struggling and things aren't going well. I think as a professional athlete, you accept that responsibility that comes with the job. In Philly there were times where it was pretty tough but there were times where it was absolutely sensational and there were standing ovations. You can't have it one way all the time.

Our futures are based on performance. If you perform, you will have a long career. By playing 17 years in the NFL, I performed. Most people remember my time in Philly but I played for the Rams for four years. I went to the NFC Championship game in 1975 quarterbacking the Rams. I played two years backing up Dan Marino in Miami. I spent a year in Kansas City in 1989. Howie Long fell on the back of my leg and blew my knee out and that was the end of my playing career. I think I did something right to play 17 years.

The consistency you exhibited from the time you got to Philadelphia to the end of your career was remarkable. What led to that level of consistency?

There is no doubt that I was very fortunate in those formative years in Los Angeles to have outstanding coaches. Chuck Knox was a fantastic football coach. … Chuck really taught me about work ethic. If you are going to succeed in the NFL, its 365 days a year. You have to be committed to it. That was the most important thing I learned as a rookie, you have to put the time in. I learned that from him.

I came to Philly and Dick Vermeil is cut from the same cloth. Don Shula, Marty Schottenheimer and Buddy Ryan, all of those guys. I was lucky to have great coaches. They all taught me that if you want to succeed in this business you have to work at it.

RAMS
RON JAWORSKI

Your rookie card appeared in the classic 1976 Topps set. Do you remember seeing yourself on a trading card for the first time?

I do! Along the way there are so many strange cards I see. There is one of me pictured in the Eagles uniform but there were no wings on the helmet. One year the NFLPA and the NFL had some disagreements, so they didn't give the players association the rights to put the Eagles helmet on the card. Every time I look at that one I think how weird that it's not an Eagles helmet, it's just a green helmet.

Do you have a favorite card from your cardboard history?

I think it was from the 1985 season. I was with the Eagles. I had a hat on. I wore a hat on the sideline. I got fined $500 for wearing the hat. It wasn't a hat given to me by the Eagles. I owned golf courses, which I still do as my business now. Back then it was a side deal. The club was called the Eagle's Nest Country Club. That picture showed up on a card. I tell people, that card is very valuable. That is not an Eagles hat. That is an Eagles Nest hat. I got fined $500. I had to pay the price.

Being as wildly popular as you are, how much fan mail do you get and how special is it to still be so loved and appreciated to this day?

I got to tell you, Tony, it is overwhelming. I am sitting in my office at home right now and in front of me is a stack of about 20 letters. I get about 10 pieces of fan mail per day. I haven't played a down since 1990 and here I am still getting fan mail. The ESPN career certainly helped. Monday Night Football and the visibility of the shows I still do keeps my name out there. I do a number of cards shows nationally and locally. There are even new cards coming out of me from my playing days, the cool cards that they make now. I get a bunch of those every day.

It's amazing that I get these cards. … There was an old box that got lost in my storage. I pulled it out. Some of the fan mail was eight to 10 years old. These people just got cards a few months ago. They thought Jaws forgot about them. Ten years later, at least I got it done. We got it all out.

As a young kid and blossoming athlete, what player inspired you most?

Jack Kemp. As a kid growing up in Buffalo, I was a Buffalo Bills fan. I was a Bills season ticket holder. I still remember my seat. I was 12 years old. I had a season ticket — Section 23, Row 13, Seat 3 at the old War Memorial Stadium. Jack Kemp was the quarterback of the Bills. They won the AFL Championship. He went on to reach a very high degree in politics. I was very lucky to have gotten to know Jack Kemp. He became someone I idolized as a football player, as a person and in the way he gave to the community.

Did you collect sports cards as a kid?

Absolutely. I wore number 7 because I was a big Mickey Mantle fan. People always ask me why number 7. That is the reason why. I wore number 7 playing high school baseball. Number 7 felt lucky to me. I still have some of the cards I collected back then. I know my son probably confiscated a lot of those. He is 36. He has a great collection himself. Through the years he has taken my good ones.

The Mantles alone are most likely worth a small fortune today.

No question. I got them signed by Mickey. We did appearances together when I was playing. It's funny when I do some of these card shows, I would always ask the guys I was working with for an autograph for me. I'm not that shy.

You mentioned sitting in your office now. Do you have memorabilia from your great career displayed?

I am all over the place. In fact, a lot of my stuff is displayed at my golf course. I own and operate seven golf clubs and each one has a sports bar as a part of the club. There are a lot of old jerseys, helmets and memorabilia hanging on the walls.

If you could go back and stop anyone after a game during your career and ask to swap jerseys, who are you asking and why?

Joe Montana. I have been with Joe a number of times. In fact, I have a jersey of his now. Jersey swapping just wasn't a thing. No one even thought of it back then. I was in great admiration of Joe. Joe wasn't the most dynamic in terms of arm strength and all of these different arm angles but he was probably the most consistent guy through the years that I ever saw play the position.

When I was with the Dolphins, we played the game over in London called The American Bowl. It was a preseason game but we practiced with each other all week. It was fun going toe to toe with Joe Montana. The 49ers offense was going one way and the Dolphins offense was going the other way, and we all did it just watching each other. It was great to watch Joe and how he handled himself and how he threw the ball. The anticipation, the reads, the progression, and of course, having Bill Walsh coaching is pretty good to have, too. I remember very vividly being there that week with Marino and Joe and that 49ers team. It was pretty cool being amongst that company.
